HONGKONG, APRIL 5, 1865.

THE performance of Monday evening should certainly be chronicled in the annals of Hongkong. The stage decorations were vastly improved, the orchestra was well filled with the string band of the 9th. The forces were upharmonic and absurd, short and well noted, very funny and very rattling. Simonsen's fiddling is magnificent—the applause and "encores" several times burst out in the very middle of his pieces. He uses no music books, and has a magic hand. His wife is a great attraction. We do not know what to say about her. There has never been any one to compare with her in China. She reminds one of the Grand Opera. Her voice is a deep contralto; she has great execution, and does not shirk her work in the least—every word, every note was given. We are mightily pleased with her, and so was the audience. The piano used on the occasion is a very fine instrument, and Madame Delingre's performances on it was most excellent.

We never previously spent so pleasant an evening in that Theatre. We have given above a slight and unvarnished idea of what took place. We would not have missed it for the cost of a bench full of tickets.

WHATEVER opinions our readers may have formed on the Hongkong press generally, they cannot deny that we have never needlessly attacked the Acting Surveyor General, but on the contrary have placed most mild constructions on his acts, and have waited in hope that when he had his harness well buckled on, he would prove effective and efficient.

We do not yet abandon the hope, but we must be excused for utterly condemning two of his late acts.

One is the paving of the upper part of Peel and Shelley Streets with granite—a plan, we have already said, which was found so dangerous at Macao, that it was absolutely condemned and removed. We condemned it on our motion, and since find that the part of Peel Street, paved as we have described, has proved so dangerous to chair coolies and to foot passengers, that it has actually been abandoned as a thoroughfare by the people who live in the vicinity! The reader should remember that this is a most expensive mode of pavement. It is strange that the parties inconvenienced do not address the Colonial Secretary on the subject.

The other objectionable act is the placing of iron pegs in the culverts to stop ingress to the drains. We instanced a case where the stone into which the upper part of the pegs fitted weighed only 88 lbs., and where a coolie after carrying it to the scales put it on the pegs again as good as new.

During the last few nights, the thieves have made a run on these pegs. They lift off the top stone, shake out the pegs, pocket them, and then put on the stone again. We would suggest that the stone should be tied down with a piece of rope, or that a reward for the apprehension of thieves should be posted on the front of the stone.

We fear that the Acting S. G's. capacity is to be fathomed—but we hope still that he may improve.

WE find that we were entirely in error in stating that the steamer Pootung, under seizure at Amoy flies the Italian flag. Our authority was derived from a letter from Amoy, which is written in very bad English. The Baron referred to is the Baron de Meritens, and the green flag is a Chinese emblem of nationality which the Customs cruizer Vindex has lately hoisted.

We have received several complaints regarding the Italian flag having been attached to coolie ships for the voyage from Macao to Havana, merely as the means to avoid the very necessary emigration provisions made and provided by the laws of the respective countries to which these Chamelion craft really belong. We consider such a practise highly derogatory to the flag of Italy, and we were the more inclined to the belief that it had been extended to the protection of vessels which trade in an illicit manner on the coast. We rejoice to find that such is not the case.

The Pootung, as we understand is still under the British flag. She was sold by her mortgaged owners, but is not transferred. She stands charged with having taken a cargo of arms to Tongsan—the only evidence against her being the officers and crew of H. M. gunboat Janus.

The Europeans who were apprehended by the Mandarins whilst attempting to join the Taipings at Changchow, were by last advices in the hold of the Custom Schooner Vindex, manacled hand and foot. Some of them are wounded and all were being subjected to very hard treatment.

As many of our readers are aware, we are advocates for a passport system which would provide every respectable European in China with a license to dwell in the country, leaving those who should evade the law to their own resources in case their nationality should be called in question.

The law as it stands is however very different. Every subject of a treaty power is responsible alone to the laws of his own Country, which certainly cannot justify this cruel incarceration in the hold of the Vindex. It may be that these men have broken the law, or rather have attempted to do so, by their intention to join the rebels, but it is perfectly absurd in the Mandarins to bring forward such a charge, or for a British Consul, at all events, to entertain it. There is no difference in a legal point of view, we mean according to British law, between serving in the Mandarin, and serving in the insurgent ranks. Yet the Mandarins themselves break British law, in both the letter and the spirit by holding out inducements to Englishmen to enlist. Furthermore they break Chinese law in thus treating British prisoners who fall into their hands.

The law as it stands may be bad—it probably is so—but although that may be a reason why it should be altered and amended, it is no reason why it should be disregarded and broken. We maintain that something should be done to compel the Chinese Government to observe faithfully Treaty rights when they affect the liberties of the person. We would raise a warning voice on this subject. If the charm be broken which has hitherto caused the lives of foreigners to be respected, we shudder at the idea of what consequences may follow. Human life, once sacrificed, cannot be restored, and considering how cruel the Mandarins are, how unscrupulously they will lie to screen themselves, it is mere folly to give them the smallest latitude as to the disposal of the persons of foreigners, until some security shall have been obtained that torture and perjury no longer form the very kernel of the Chinese judicial system.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR.

To the Editor of the "Daily Press"

DEAR SIR,—Last night, came my turn to be visited by those vagabonds (I don't mean policemen) but Leily lounge whose vocation is to plunder, or when it better furthers their purpose, act as outside, coolies so as to have the best information relative to position, also the manner doors, of godowns are secured &c. I would suppose these men to be generally, the associates of coolies employed in buildings and are located in matsheds. They can always secure, in those places, a safe retreat until, the gray morning begins to peep on them, then if the way is clear, it is easy for them to dispose of dishonestly obtained property to dishonest Chinamen, for who ever believed in an honest one; as a friend of mine was wont to say: "Every day a Chinaman is born, brings one more rogue into the world. Omnes abitiam malis precludito." "Keep a rogue always at a distance." My motives for mentioning that matsheds of buildings are safe asylums for thieves, are that I might suggest when people are disturbed at night, alarmed with a cry that their godown has been broken into, that they immediately proceed to search all the edifices in course of construction round about where the robbery took place, and we have no doubt in many instances the property will be discovered. The godown in which the robbery was perpetrated, has an entrance from Hollywood Road; there are trees along the footpath, which are easily mounted, and having only one to step on to the roof being about 18 feet high from the road. This accomplished the thieves removed a few of the tiles, so as to make an opening, which measured 22 inches by 21, there being no ceiling they had but little trouble in descending, into the godown. The out offices consisting of kitchen, cooks room, and stabling, being immediately under the godown, fortunately for us, one of the coolies, heard footsteps, blustered out loudly, which awakened, the other coolies, and boys, and the thieves alarmed, hastily took to their heels. It was about half past four o'clock in the morning, the boy roused us, without delay, we proceeded to the godown, by the back entrance and found on entering, they had opened 4 cases, and had the property all ready to be carried off, convenient to the door, which had been, padlocked and barred; they forced the bolt of the padlock, and unbarred the door, so that when we entered, the door leading to Hollywood Road, was only closed and goods in lots just near to it. What is most astounding in all such cases of robbery is, the dexterity of the thieves, and total absence of the police.....We waited half an hour without the pleasure of seeing one; we four then in charge of the police took a hint from Solon the Athenian sage, who said there are two things, if you're a wise man, you'll not fret at. "The thing you can't help, and the thing which you can. The coolie positively states that it was not five minutes, from the time he heard, what he suspected, to be out on the roof and afterwards footsteps in the godown when he gave the alarm, and how it was possible, to open 4 cases iron bound and tin lined, in so short a space of time is quite an enigma, to us, for indubitably our coolie employed for the purpose, could not accomplish it in less than half an hour.

This is the second instance of robbery on the same godown, and luckily on both occasions the thieves were foiled in the attempt to carry off any property. Our Watchman was dismissed about 4 months ago after the first attempt, he being posted on the Hollywood Road to guard that portion of the house, and actually allowed the door to be forced open from the outside, I suppose he must have been lucubrating over the works of Confucious, but we did not prosecute him on his plea of being sick and having fallen asleep; it is not at all unlikely, that this man was the chief accomplice. How beautifully true are the proverbs of "Phoolum." "Malos tuer haud tutum" which literally means, "It is not safe to defend the bad," corresponding to our English maxim—"Save a thief from the Gallows and he will cut your throat."

I frequently see a number of diseased paupers, driven in a flock by some Chinese policemen, along the Queens Road. I presume to be deported from the colony, which is a very great acquisition; yet that does not assist to do away with the crime of highway robbery &c. It is well to get rid of these unfortunate creatures now the summer is approaching, still they are less to be dreaded, than the other class of vagrants mentioned, who stop not at murder if they can carry it out successfully.

We might here introduce a citation from Virgil after the destruction of Troy—"Linquebant, dulces animas aut aegra trahebant corpora. "They were relinquishing sweet life and dragging their sickly bodies after them"; but my reason for being timid in giving quotations is I may offend some gentlemen who write letters, to the E. Mail, and may come down upon me for not being very precise in giving the authors proper name and address.

I allude to the opening address, spoken by Mr. Mercer a the Debating Society (which was a very appropriate and elegant speech) after its appearance in the E. Mail. Some person wrote a letter containing a pot full of balderdash to the effect that Mr. Mercer should be careful not to cite quotations from authors who actually never dreamt of them. I do not mean to blame the person for his impertinence of wishing to see his name in print but surely it is astonishing the editor would insert such humbug; the gentleman ought to be cognizant of an old proverb which I will remind him of fearing as he is so well read he might forget it "Better is an ass that speaks well than a prophet that speaks ill."

We have diverged from the topic but let us again to it. I left off at the utility of the deporting of sickly paupers which is really a great boon to the Colony; much of late has been said from the press, for a mode of suppressing highway robbery yet no suggestions of a character feasible to be carried out as yet appeared in any opinion. Therefore humbly make my propositions which are divided into two. First to employ for quite chinese women as detectives, this may shock the minds of the fastidious and might be ruled against, but why should we not equally be protected as sailors, soldiers, and Parsees, if houses inhabited by ladies of easy virtue, are licensed for their protection surely it is not a more gross to establish secretly a body of these unfortunates who are well acquainted with the thieves, and are in great dread of them and who would be too happy to give private information or their apprehension and furnish us with other useful matter for our profession. Secondly and lastly the hills to be secured and every Chinaman picked up having no occupation, or place of abode, to be handed over to the Canton authorities as vagrants, on the arrival of the Steamers. 4 Chinamen to be stationed on each end any Chinaman on board not producing his passport not to be permitted to land. For this latter purpose arrangements with the mandarins in Canton should be proposed so as to issue passports only to Chinamen who are likely to become proper residents.—I remain, Dear Sir,

Your Obedt. Servant.

ACCIDENTS AND OFFENCES.

HOUSE ROBBERY.—A China boy gained entry to a room occupied by Mr. Reynvaan on the Praya, about three o'clock on the morning of the 22nd ultimo, and stole a gold watch and chain, two diamond rings and a dagger, all valued at over $400. It is supposed that he got in from an adjoining house.

THE HILL GANG.—A native painter who lives at West Point was attacked by a portion of the hill gang on the 22nd ulto. whilst on his way from this to Aberdeen. The thieves were four in number, they were as usual all well armed, and having knocked down their defenceless victim they robbed him of everything of value including his clothes, and made off. The painter, though much wounded, managed to get back to Victoria, and a party of police secured the hills afterwards without success.

BURGLARY.—A large number of armed thieves made an onslaught about 2 o'clock on Sunday morning on a Chinaman's house in Saint Francis' Street. Having broken open the door, they commenced slashing away at the inmates with knives. Some policemen hearing the disturbance came to the spot, when the thieves retreated up the hill without being able to carry off any property. Two of the inmates were found to be seriously wounded and were taken to the hospital.

ANOTHER BURGLARY was committed in Saint Francis Street on the following night when the thieves were more successful and got possession of some clothing and money with which they escaped up the hill pursued by the police who fired several shots at the fugitives without effect.

GODOWN ROBBERY.—A robbery was committed on Sunday of a large quantity of rattaneed consisting of 59 bales, which was taken by the thieves from the godowns of Messrs. Siemssen & Co. at Wanchi.

On Monday a cargo boat was seized by the water police and was found to have on board 33 of the stolen bales. A man and two women who were in the boat at the time have been examined before the Magistrate and remanded.

The Stevedore who loaded the brig Georg Andreas is now in custody on suspicion of being concerned in the Piracy.

PENINSULAR & ORIENTAL STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY.

NOTICE OF REDUCTION OF PASSAGE MONEY.

IN the year 1857 the Directors made a considerable reduction in the Company's rates of Passage Money, which continued in force till 1861.

In that year, owing to the extraordinary rise in the Cost and Freight of Coals, and the enhanced price of all descriptions of Naval Stores, the Directors were reluctantly compelled to return to the rates of Passage Money previously in force.

They are now happy to state that a decrease in the price of Coal and other expenses of Steam Navigation enables them to reduce the Company's Passage rates to the undernoted scale, which will take effect from and after the 1st June next, viz:—

From Hongkong to:—

Suez,	$460
Malta,	510
Marseilles,	530
Gibraltar,	550
Southampton,	550

Reserved Rates for Single Persons.

Suez,	$920
Malta,	1,020
Marseilles,	1,060
Gibraltar,	1,100
Southampton,	$1,100

Reserved Rates for Married Couples.

Suez,	$1,150
Malta,	1,250
Gibraltar,	1,344
Marseilles,	1,348
Southampton,	1,388

The charges for Children are in proportion to the above.

The above rates are exclusive of the amount payable to the Egyptian Transit Administration for conveyance of Passengers through Egypt, viz:—

For First-class Passengers, $32
Children above three and under ten years, half-fare.

By Order of the Managing Directors,

NOTICE TO SHIPPERS OF TREASURE, &c.

TO facilitate the work of Shippers, the Company have arranged to receive any Treasure intended for Shipment in their Steamers at their Offices in the Queen's Road.

Treasure will be received in this manner any day between the hours of 10 A.M and 4 P.M., up to the day preceding that of the Steamer's departure. Should the hour fixed for leaving be later than Noon, shipments will be received on the day of departure, from 7 to 9 A.M.

Shippers desiring to avail of this arrangement, will please send along with their Treasure, Shipping Orders and Receipts carefully filled up with Marks, Description, and Destination, and if the Bills of Lading are delivered at the same time the work will be greatly facilitated.

The Company of course except the "risk of Boats," &c., as covered by ordinary Marine Insurance.

With reference to the foregoing notice, it is hereby intimated that the Company's Godowns are now ready for the reception of Opium and other Cargo for shipment in the Company's Steamers, under the same conditions as stated above.

Extracts.

A Speech of President Lincoln.

Professor Goldwin Smith writes in Macmillan:—That his is something more than a boor his address at the dedication of the cemetery at Gettysburg will in itself be sufficient to prove. The greatest orator of the United States pronounced on that occasion a long, elaborate, and very eloquent discourse, with all that grace of delivery by which he is distinguished. The President, with a very ungainly manner, said these words:—Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all man are created equal. Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that or any nation so conceived and so dedicated can long endure. We are met on a great battle field of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this. But, in a larger sense, we cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here; but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us; that from these honoured dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth." There are one or two phrases here, such as "dedicated to the proposition," which betray a hand unaccustomed to fine writing, and are proofs that the composition is Lincoln's own. But, looking to the substance, it may be doubted whether any king in Europe would have expressed himself more royally than the peasant's son.—Daily News.

The Late Duke of Northumberland.

Never within the memory of the present generation has there been such a universal manifestation of sorrow in Northumberland for the loss of a public man as was shown on Sunday and Monday, when it became generally known that the Duke was dead; and the expression of honest regret was not confined to any particular class, but found an utterance among the lowest as well as the highest. The Duke's possessions in Northumberland comprised 2,000 acres of woodlands; 116,200 acres of hill pasture, grass lands, etc., 36,900 of tillage occupation, and 4,700 waste, seashore, rock, etc., in all 162,800 acres. During his occupancy, his tenants, down to the 1st Jan., 1864, had expended £39,689 in roads and bridges, £308,336 in building cottages, etc., and £176,582 in drainage upon his vast estates. 35,203 acres of land have been thoroughly drained, and upwards of 1,000 cottages have been either built or put into good repair. While improving the homesteads of his farmers and the cottages of his labourers, the deceased nobleman has expended a quarter of a million sterling upon the Prudhoe Tower and other extensive works at Alnwick Castle and his great scheme of Church extension, just completed before his lamented death, has involved an outlay of £100,000. His Grace was very anxious, when he found his health was failing, to complete a large and magnificent scheme that he had long contemplated, for the education of the children of fishermen and seamen on the coast of Northumberland, and it is stated that the endowment of schools in the villages of Whitley, Tynemouth, Percy Main, and at North Shields, was completed shortly before his death. The Duke of Northumberland built the Tyne Sailors' Home at a cost of upwards of £7,000. He also established lifeboats and lifeboat stations at Hauxley, Tynemouth, Cullercoats, and Newbiggin, and was a magnificent supporter of all the local charities. For many years of his life the Duke took a lively interest in the exploration of the Roman wall which have been undertaken from time to time. He also spent considerable sums of money in making excavations at Greaves Ash and other old British camps in the Cheviot Hills.—Times.

Curious Bankruptcy Case.

T. R. Baker, described as a commercial traveller, formerly a draper at Woolwich, applied yesterday to Mr. Commissioner Goulburn for his discharge. His application was opposed on the ground that he had attempted to account for his deficiency by alleging fictitious losses. The debts were about £1,500. His Honour now gave judgment. The case was one of the most extraordinary that had ever come before him, and showed the facility with which debtors, if fraudulently disposed, might divest themselves of their property, and claim a discharge from their creditors. Such a course was now unfortunately too common. The bankrupt was very well to do, having enough to pay his creditors two or three times over. A suit was instituted against him in the Divorce Court by his wife, who obtained a divorce and a decree for alimony, whereby the bankrupt became liable for £600, including costs. This he determined not to pay, and he sold his business, lease and stock-in-trade for upwards of £2,000, and having received the money went abroad, visiting Wiesbaden and Geneva amongst other places. From the latter place he wrote a letter, stating that the window of his "hotel" looked over the "Alps." (A laugh.) He also stated that he had speculated at Wiesbaden and lost his money, adding that if the ex-Mrs. B. wanted any of his spare cash she had better get it, as he should go through the court when he came home, but should first try and win back some of the money he had lost. The letter showed the animus of the man. On coming to this country he gave three different accounts of the way in which he had lost his money. First, he went to the Bank of England, and made affidavits that he had lost his notes (one for £1 000, two of £2000 each, eight of £10, and four of £5 each), on leaving the Boulogny boat at Folkestone, through attempting to transfer the cigar-case which contained them from his trousers pocket to another. Being pressed on from behind, he had dropped it from his hand, and inadvertently kicked it into the sea. He came up to London, and gave information of his loss at Scotland-yard, and also to Inspector Hamilton. This was some months after the alleged loss, and when he had had time to consider the subject. He then represented that he had the notes in the breast pocket of his coat, and had reason to suspect two of his fellow-passengers from Boulogne. Inquiries were made, and this suspicion was proved to be groundless, the persons referred to being perfectly respectable. Afterwards, the whole of the notes except one came into the Bank from abroad, proving that they had not fallen into the sea. It was remarkable how attentive the officers of the Bank were in cases of this kind. To Sergeant Pratt the bankrupt admitted that he had carried the money about with him, and avoided putting it in a bank, in order to keep it out of the reach of his wife. He denied having gambled at any of the tables on the continent, thus contradicting the statement in his own letter. He further alleged that he had shown his money to a stranger in Paris, who was stopping at the same hotel, and to whom he disclosed all his affairs. In his statement to the sergeant he added that he felt a hand in his trousers pocket on coming up the ladder at Folkstone, and on getting to the top found that his cigar-case was gone. He observed the two persons referred to behind him; he gave them into custody (of this there was no corroboration), and "ran about like mad." When he came to this court he gave an account which varied from either of the other two. He said that he went to Hamburg and Berlin, and found that the notes had been passed at those places. When cross-examined as to the way in which he lost the notes, he said that he carried them in the side-pocket of an under coat. He denied having contemplated bankruptcy while he was abroad, notwithstanding the evidence of his own letter, and said that he had come home with the intention of liquidating his debts. The latter being shown to him he was evidently nonplussed, and said he did contemplate passing through the court, not because he had not plenty of money, but because he would not pay an unjust demand. He then repeated the story as to dropping the cigar-case on the gangway, and distinctly said that he saw it fall into the sea. Afterwards he was living for some time at Ryo, and being asked as to his means, said that he was living on some debts which he had collected. He now came before the court with nothing for his creditors; and the first question was, did he lose the notes at all. The court was of opinion that he had lost some of them at the gaming-table, but had kept enough for his own purposes. There was clearly a determination on his part not to pay his wife anything. His story was an ingenious one, but the court did not believe it. The motive was transparent. This sitting would be adjourned sine die, with protection for one month only, to give the bankrupt no opportunity of appealing. If so advised.—"Post."
